THE SUBSTITUTE BILL.

The substitute Silver bill adopted by the Conference, provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall purchase from time to time silver bullion to the aggregate of 4,500,000 ounces, or so much thereof as may be offered, in each month, at the market price thereof, not exceeding $1 for 371.25 grains of pure silver, the Treasury notes issued in payment to be redeemable in coin and legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract, and to be receivable for customs, taxes and all public dues.

Upon the demand of the holder of the Treasury notes, the Secretary shall, under such regulations as he may prescribe, redeem such notes in gold or silver coin at his discretion, it being the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio, or at such ratio as may be provided by law.

The Secretary of the Treasury shall each month coin 2,000,000 ounces of the silver bullion purchased into standard silver dollars until July 1, 1891, and after that time shall coin out of the silver bullion purchased as much money as may be necessary to provide for the redemption of Treasury notes. The present law is repealed. The last section provides for covering into the Treasury the fund held for the redemption of the National bank circulation.

TELLER'S AND STEWART'S OPINION.

In the debate in the Senate Tuesday Teller said that, much as he disliked the adoption of a half-way measure, he was compelled to support the Conference bill as the only measure which could bring relief to the people of the United States for the next few months. Congress would reassemble in December next, and if the bill did not work well it could be reformed next session. He was restrained by the courtesy due to another body (the House of Representatives) from expressing his opinion with regard to its course. The body, which had been considered a representative body of the American people, had absolutely flouted in the face of the American people the demands made upon it by Wall Street—totally disregarding public sentiment. There had been no lobby in either house, but there had never been such a pressure brought upon Congress as was brought upon it at this session to defeat the free coinage of silver. He believed it impossible to secure free coinage at the present session, because the voice of the majority of the House was stifled—not to be heard—and it would never be heard until the people of the United States sent to the House and Senate men willing to represent them in spite of Eastern influence.

Stewart said that if the conference bill was executed in good faith (as the Senate was bound to assume that it would be), it would be a great relief. He was confident that it would be an object lesson that would tend to free coinage.

SILVER.

The San Francisco Call is well pleased with the new silver bill. It says:

The latest news from Washington is that the Conference Committee on silver has agreed upon a report, which will be submitted to the two Houses. The committee agreed that 4,500,000 ounces of silver shall be purchased each month and paid for with coin or legal tender notes. The billion redemption provision in the Senate bill have been eliminated; each House thereby makes a concession. As Senator Sherman reported the bill agreed upon to the Conference Committee it may be regarded as an Administration measure. The report will, without doubt, be accepted by both Houses and the bill signed by the President. The real friends of silver should be satisfied with this result. Free coinage of silver will almost certainly be reached within a few years and without any disturbance.

Editorial Opinions.

New York, July 8.—Following are editorial opinions on the Silver bill:

Mail and Express, (Rep.), says: The bill is satisfactory all around, and will undoubtedly pass both houses.

The Post (Ind.), says: The bill is a compromise of conflicting whimsies and conflicting interests. We doubt whether the Senate will accept it, but if it does the country may be congratulated on not getting a worse measure.

Senator Foster, of Louisiana, in a ringing speech against the lottery, said: "I say, sir, that if Louisiana can not perform the duties of a State, if she can not educate her children and support her charitable institutions, then let us tear from her her sovereign rights as a State and place her under control and protection of the Federal Government or some other government save the government of the lottery company."

California's share of the Congressional appropriation of $400,000 for the encouragement of the National Guard is $7,516 88. New York gets the largest allotment $33,825.

Florida intends to ask for the same amount of apportionment at the World's Fair as that desired by California.

WYOMING AND IDAHO.

Characteristics of the Territories About to Become States.

Wyoming has an area of about 100,000 square miles; its breadth from east to west being 365 miles, and from north to south 275 miles. The general appearance of the country is mountainous, with valleys, broad, rolling plains, sloping foothills and bold bluffs and buttes. The elevation ranges from 3,500 to 14,000 feet above the sea level. The present population is estimated at from 60,000 to 75,000 whites. The Indians are all on reservations, are peaceful and are being educated to mechanical and farming pursuits.

Stock raising is the most important industry. In 1888, the range stock numbered 2,000,000 cattle, 1,000,000 sheep and goats and 100,000 mules and horses, all worth in round numbers $75,000,000. The grazing lands represent about one-half the area of the new State.

The new State is rich in minerals, 30,000 square miles of its surface being underlain by coal-bearing strata alone. The output of coal in 1889 was 1,313,420 tons. Beside coal there are iron, deposits of soda, sulphur, salt, slate, gypsum, copper, tin, mica, marble, sandstone, magnesite and other minerals. Both lode and placer gold mines abound. The oil fields are extensive, covering a belt thirty miles wide and 200 miles long.

The farm products are alfalfa, from two to three cuttings a year and aggregating about five tons to the acre; oats, wheat and barley. Potatoes grow to perfection.

Wyoming is larger than New England and has more natural resources of all kinds. Its water power is unlimited and the facilities for manufacturing industries are of the best.

At the present time there are ten organized counties in Wyoming. Cheyenne is the capital and the largest town.

Idaho is an Indian word signifying "Gem of the Mountains." The new State is 410 miles in length, from north to south, and 257 miles wide in the extreme southern part. There are 18,400,000 acres classed as mountainous, 15,000,000 acres of agricultural lands, 7,000,000 acres of forests, 25,000,000 acres of grazing country, and 600,000 acres of lakes. In 1880 the population of the Territory was 31,610, but it has since increased until the figures have passed the 100,000 point. There are sixteen organized counties in the State and a large number of thriving towns. The capital and largest city is Boise City, situated in the southern part of the State on a branch of the Union Pacific Railroad.

The agricultural lands of Idaho are almost exclusively sage brush and require irrigation to make them productive. They occupy a large portion of available area of the State and generally consist of broad plateaus. A stranger unacquainted with sage brush lands would regard any attempt to reclaim them as useless but with irrigation the soil becomes exceedingly productive. The best farms in Idaho were once sterile lands. The soil is especially adapted to the raising of all kinds of grain, the warmth of the earth and the mellowness of the soil always warranting an abundant yield when watered.

There are 313 school districts in Idaho and 216 schools, with 10,000 enrolled pupils. The total number of children of school age is in the neighborhood of twenty thousand. There are ten school libraries and the yearly expenditure for schools is over $200,000.

The mean temperature of the State is 50 degrees above zero.

Some of the finest agricultural and mining lands are in the counties of Shoshone, Nez Perce, Latah and Kootenai, in Northern Idaho. Here are situated the thriving towns of Lewiston, Moscow, Murray, Wardner, Weber and Chloride.

How It Was Done.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—After the first ineffectual conference last Thursday the Republican members decided that an agreement could be more speedily and satisfactorily reached by a party consultation than a conference open to both political parties.

Jones, and Representatives Conger and Walker, entered upon the task of drafting a compromise measure. They progressed so rapidly in this that a conference substitute was completed in all the essential points, save one, and sent to the printer yesterday.

The one point left open related to the amount of silver bullion to be purchased. Sherman, Walker and Conger thought 4,000,000 ounces monthly a fair compromise, but Jones declared for 4,500,000 ounces. Such was the state of affairs this morning, when overtures were again made to Jones to accept 4,000,000 ounces. Western Senators were in receipt of telegrams urging them to hold out for the full amount of 4,500,000 ounces, and insist upon a speedy disposition of the bill. So the overtures were rejected, and when the proposition was made to take up the Tariff Bill in the Senate this afternoon the silver men manifested their power to check the flow of party legislation unless their demands were met. Soon afterwards the Republican members of the conference were again called together, and the words "give hundred thousand" were added to the four million ounces contained in the printed conference substitute, and the agreement completed.

Senator Sherman spent a few minutes in drafting a formal report to the Senate and then notified the Democratic members, Senator Harris and Representative Brand, and the agreement was formally ratified, although the Democratic members refused to sign the report.

THE SILVER COMPROMISE.

The San Francisco Bulletin comments as follows upon the new silver measure:

The silver compromise appears to have come along in due time. The text of the measure agreed upon in Committee of Conference has not been transmitted. There is a general consensus that it provides for the purchase and coinage of 4,500,000 ounces of silver per month, and that the bullion redemption feature of the House bill has been dropped. It was the last mentioned clause which caused the greatest dissatisfaction among silver men. It permitted the Secretary at his discretion to redeem silver certificates in silver bullion. It was charged that this arrangement reduced silver to a commodity, and with a great deal of reason. It may be said that this is the point for which the gold men have been struggling from the beginning. It has been brought up in a variety of forms, but analysis always reduced it to silver demonetization.

This obnoxious provision out of the way, the work of the Conference Committee was neither arduous nor difficult. There was only one compromise possible between those who demand free coinage and those who oppose it to the present monthly minimum of $2,000,000—that is to say, the coinage of a larger amount of silver. This we have in the provision to coin 4,500,000 ounces per month, against 2,000,000 ounces of silver, as at present. There are 480 grains of silver in an ounce, while there are only 412½ grains in a standard dollar. It is not yet clear whether under the compromise 4,500,000 ounces of pure silver are to be purchased per month, or 4,500,000 of standard dollars—that is to say, 900 fine. Till that fact is determined no calculation of the amount of dollars to be coined each month can be made.

If the ounces are to be of pure silver a much larger amount will be coined than if they were of the standard fineness. If the latter, a much larger amount, however, than four and a half millions will be turned out monthly, seeing that there are only 412½ grains in a dollar as against 480 in the ounce. What is going to be the effect of the compromise on silver bullion is nothing more than a matter of conjecture. The probability of favorable legislation has raised the price of the metal 6d. the ounce in the English market. It has to go to 59½d. to gain the American par of the metal. If the increased demand of the Federal Treasury should render silver scarce the parity upon which free coinage is possible may be reached sooner than some suppose. If any sort of permanency should declare itself the varied question might then be regarded as a tie.

The increase in the value of silver which has already taken place ought to prove a benefit to American farmers and planters. It has rendered Indian wheat and cotton by so much dearer. The silver question has received a greater impulse from this source than almost any other. But the problem may be said to be more than ordinarily knitted. There may yet be a breaking away from the compromise, though a rupture of that kind can hardly be regarded as very probable. The question weeks ago got very nearly settled in the Senate upon the main lines now disclosed. But, without any previous warning Senator Plumb's amendment providing for free coinage went through and upset all chance of agreement for the time.

The House, which is more distinctly under the control of the gold-men, may kick against the elimination of the bullion redemption clause. If it does it is quite certain that there will be no silver legislation at this session of Congress. There seems to be a certainty that this compromise will go through the Senate, judging from the names of the Senators in Conference Committee who are parties to it. The measure, as it stands, is strictly Republican in character. It gives the Democrats no chance to elbow their way into the controversy and break up the Republican line. Free coinage was carried in the Senate, and can only be carried in the House by the coalition of a small number of Republicans with the great body of the Democrats. By free coinage the Democrats proposed to pluck victory out of the defeat of 1888.

A YOUNG MAN'S GIFT.

Astounding Cures of all Sorts of Physical Infirmitates.

PARIS, July 8.—An astonishing story of a miraculous healing is reported from the island of Oleron, near La Rochelle. A young man is said to have become suddenly endowed with miraculous power to cure all sorts of physical infirmities. He uses neither incantation, hypnotism nor drugs, but simply places his feet against those of the patient and makes movements with his hands over the parts afflicted, thereby effecting a complete cure. His popularity is increasing by the fact that he makes no charge, but simply says, after the gestures are completed, "Go in peace, you are him in crowds. He exercises his power at certain hours only.

Western Senators Pleased With the Bill.

A Washington dispatch reads as follows: The Conference Committee's agreement on the silver bill was just as it was predicted it would be by the California Associated Press correspondent. It is conceded by Western Senators and Representatives to be a good measure, and they are congratulating themselves on the outcome of the matter. It is conceded on all sides that the bill will pass and receive the President's signature. Senator Stewart said: "It is a good bill—a better one than was expected. I do not quite like one point, however—viz., the invitation to members to make usurious loans. It provides that Treasury notes shall be legal tender, except where they are provided otherwise by contract. This does not change the existing law, but is an unnecessary suggestion to people to be dishonest and oppressive. Unfortunately for the Democratic party, Senator Harris and Representative Brand did not vote for the bill. It was therefore carried by Republican votes. I think, however, the Democrats will all vote for it. It is such an advance step that no friend of silver can afford to vote against it. The people of the whole country should be congratulated upon obtaining partial relief from the exactions of bondholders. This step is sure to lead to the full redemption of silver. Its beneficial results will be such as to make it impossible for holders of fixed capital to obtain further legislation to make money dear and property cheap."

News has been received in Carson that Albert Sutton passed the West Point examination without any trouble, and is now a full-fledged cadet.

A True Cat Story.

When I was a little girl I used to fish from a deep brook that ran at the foot of the hills near father's house. I would tie a bent pin to a length of apple twine, and lying face down on the planks that bridged the brook in the cart road, would watch the little fishes nibble my bait till I had hooked one or more of them.

One day our old tortoise shell cat came and sat down on the planks close beside me. She craned her head over the end of the bridge, and with glancing eyes watched the shining little fellows that swam around my hook in the water. At last a fat chub took hold of my bait, and pulling him out, I gave the wriggling fish to the eager watching old cat, who seized it with a growl of approval.

The next day old pussy came into the kitchen as wet as a drenched rat—not a dry hair on her sleek coat.

"Where has that cat been?" we all cried, and we had occasion to repeat the exclamation the next day, and the next, and the next, for each noontime pussy made a like appearance, creeping in under the kitchen stove to dry her dripping fur.

"Maybe she falls into the cistern when watching for mice," mother said, "if she gets into the cellar through that scuttle hole window it must be boarded. One of you children keep close watch of her to-morrow."

But it was not in the cistern where pussy had taken her daily bath, but in the brook. I saw her the next forenoon, sitting at one end of the plank bridge, and crouched near to watch her.

She was eagerly peering down into the water, lashing her tail and poised for a spring. Then came a flying leap, a quick splash and shower of glittering drops, then a big commotion under the water, and up out of the brook pussy darted, puffing and sneezing, dripping from ears to tail, but with a slippery, flopping chub securely held in her teeth.

Our smart old cat had simply learned how to go fishing for herself.—Clarissa Potter in Springfield Homestead.

Wise Old Cat.

A rather reckless phrase sometimes accuses forward children of being "too smart to live." Our Dumb Animals relates a story of a humane housekeeper who concluded that her pet cat was too smart to die.

There were three cats in a William street family in Norwich, Conn., and as the lady of the house concluded that one was sufficient, an edict of death was passed on the old cat and her kitten. The question of the manner of death was settled and chloroform purchased.

Some days passed before the executioner could muster courage to execute the sentence, and finally the lady put some laudanum into the cat's milk, thinking to produce a stupor that would make the chloroforming more easy.

The old cat tasted the milk, cast her eyes suspiciously about her, and refused to eat. The kitten rushed to the dish, but was violently knocked away by the old cat, who took a corner of a mat and covered over the dish to hide it from the kitten and prevent her from taking the "medicine."

The lady could not believe it possible that the act was intentional, and uncovered the dish. The cat again knocked the kitten from it, and covered it more carefully than before. The repetition of the protective act was too much for the lady, and the cat and her two kittens were allowed to live.

Trees on the Tower.

Greensburg, Ind., has long been noted by the singular phenomenon of trees growing on the court house tower. The first tree showed its appearance in 1864, a tiny green shoot at the top of the tower, and was the cause of much wonder and interest. Its development was eagerly watched, and as its steady growth continued, became known as the Lone Tree. As years passed the little tree assumed greater and more graceful proportions, and flourished in spite of its lofty position, exposed to wind and storm. Other trees have since made their appearance, and now the tower is crowned with a forest of different sides of the tower, and there are now seven. While making the repairs on the court house a scaffolding was built around the tower, and the largest tree was reported to be six and one half inches in circumference and five feet ten inches high. No damage was being done by them, and it was decided to allow them to remain, as the crevices in the stone roofing made by the roots of the trees show an opening of only one and one-quarter inches. The tower is 128 feet high, of solid masonry, and how the trees find nourishment to sustain them is a matter of great wonder.—Christian at Work.

A Kernoozer.

Theft of memorial brasses, and displacement, neglect or loss of armor from church tombs have been occasioning correspondence in the daily papers. Kernoozers may still rescue a great deal of the latter from oblivion, as, like all true connoisseurs, they are enthusiasts. The words kernoozer, kernoozing, need explanation. A man who was of humble birth and no education became so mixed up with artists that he gathered much knowledge on matters connected with art, and developed a taste to some extent for studying armor. He was often found in the celebrated Christie auction room, and on one occasion when armor was under the hammer, he of the room asked Mr. "what was his opinion from giving any on the ground that he was no kernoozer. When a club of armor virtuosi was formed, and a name desired for it, some one suggested the adoption of Kernoozer, and now its sense is so extended that a verb is formed—I kernooze, you kernooze, he kernoozes, I should kernooze, he should kernooze, etc.—London Exchange and Mart.

Abominous Indians.

It is often observed that man is a creature of habit. In the matter of drinking it is too often the case that he is the slave of habit. The practice of the South American Indians of the desert regions throws some light upon this subject.

Often a native will find himself in the dry season at many leagues' distance from the nearest water. This troubles him but very little. Notwithstanding the dry, thirst giving nature of his diet, he can exist without drinking for days comfortably enough. Twice a week or so he will go down to water with his cattle to the nearest laguna and slake his thirst.

How unlike the white man, who has such an unfortunate tendency to get thirsty at all sorts of odd moments.—Youth's Companion.

To Prevent a Black Eye.

There is nothing to compare with the tincture or a strong infusion of capsicum annuum mixed with an equal bulk of mucilage of gum arabic, and with the addition of a few drops of glycerine. This should be painted all over the surface with a camel's hair pen-brush, and allowed to dry on, a second or third coating being applied as soon as the first is dry. If done as soon as the injury is inflicted, (this treatment will invariably prevent the blackening of the bruised tissue. The same remedy has no equal in rheumatic stiff neck.—St. Louis Polyclinic.

AN ELKO CANDIDATE.

The Elko Independent has this:

Many of the good people of Elko county think that as Elko county is represented in the highest branch of our Legislature by one editor it would be a good plan to "make even" by sending another; and hence the announcement elsewhere in this issue. O. W. Grover has been a resident of the county for more than ten years, but as to his qualifications for the position we have nothing to say. The people know him, and if they choose to send him to the State Legislature he can only promise that he will do what he can for the interests of the State in general, and Elko county particularly. With no further pledges than the above he submits his name to the consideration of his party Convention, with the assurance in advance that no exceptions will be taken to the action of that body should it see fit in its wisdom to select a better man for the position of State Senator.

Self-Defense.

Colonel Yerger—Is your clergyman going to take a vacation this Summer? Judge Peterby—Yes, we raised a purse for him without any trouble. If we hadn't he would have kept on preaching all through July and August.—Texas Sittings.

The Elko Independent, of Monday, says: George Russell, Nevada's World's Fair Commissioner, returned from Chicago this morning. Mr. Russell is glad to get home again, as the weather here is distressingly hot and sultry. The Lake Front and Jackson Park were selected as sites for the World's Fair, although they are seven or eight miles apart. Buildings will be erected at all places and free trains will run constantly between the two points.

James W. Erwin, U. S. Post Office Inspector, was in town yesterday.

A LOVELY WOMAN

overheard one say of her, "By heaven she's painted!" "Yes," retorted she indignantly, "and by heaven only I can paint health on my cheek, yet this beautiful lady, once thin and pale, and suffering from a dry, hacking cough, night sweats, and spitting of blood, seemed destined to all a consumptive's grave. After spending hundreds of dollars on physicians, Golden Medical Discovery, her improvement was soon marked, and in a few months she was plump and rosy again. A perfect picture of health and strength. This wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery," now world-famed as a remedy for all consumption, which is really lung-scrophulous, and all kinds of blood and skin diseases, as White Swellings, Fever, Rheumatism, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, and kindred ailments. All scaly, crusty, itching, troublesome eruptions yield readily to its curative powers. It invigorates the liver, enriches the blood, and promotes all the bodily functions. It is the only liver, blood and lung remedy, sold by druggists, under a trade name, and that it will do all that it is recommended to, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Beckwouth Pass and Middle Feather Railroad

The Quincy National says it has "every reason to believe that the anxiety of railroad men to, very shortly, have a line competing with the Southern Pacific system into San Francisco, will ultimately lead them to select the most feasible of all railroad routes, for a great national line to the coast. It will be the route that will do the business and convey the travel. Uppermost in the minds of every civil, mining and railroad engineer lives the fact that it is the only practicable route across the Sierra Nevada mountains, that exists from the Oregon line on the north to near the extreme limits of the southern boundary of the State. And it cannot be long before we will have a railroad that will be of benefit to every portion of the United States, and no monument of folly, as is exhibited by the Central Pacific on the Dutch Flat route. We look upon the construction of an overland railroad through Beckwouth Pass and down the Middle Feather as a fixed fact. It is bound to be the great national thoroughfare between the east and west, the time will come, and that not far off either, when the citizens of this country will be able to get aboard the cars anywhere between Summit and Oroville, and land in St. Louis or Chicago in nearly the same time that it now takes them from here to San Francisco. The advantages and benefits that the road will confer on the citizens of this country—travelling, as it will, at least 80 miles of our territory from east to west, will be immense, and almost incalculable. No one not conversant with matters of this kind can begin to estimate them, new avenues of communication open up new enterprises in the way of business, our extensive forests will be brought into market, mining in all its branches will receive a new impetus, and the untold wealth of the country will become fully developed. The great saving in the price of freight to the consumers, will be of itself no inconsiderable item, and our long Winters will not then afford us annoyance through delays in mails, and the tardy actions of remote stage contractors will be a thing of the past. Time, which is equivalent to money, will be saved in traveling from the different localities, our merchants will not be compelled to purchase such heavy stocks of merchandise in the fall of the year when prices are at the highest, in order to meet a six months' demand, and on which interest has to be paid, all of which comes out of the consumer's pocket. These are but few of the immediate benefits that we will receive on the completion of the road, and we will leave the rest to come to demonstration and prove the truth of our prediction."

LARGE FARMS VS. SMALL ONES.

A Few Suggestions for Washoe County Farmers.

Nevada farmers, with few exceptions, are forever complaining of hard times, and the difficulty they have to make ends meet, so to speak. They work hard and struggle along year after year for a bare living, and in many instances, when the balance sheet is struck at the end of the year, the profits are found to be on the wrong side of the ledger. Bills have to be contracted during the Summer that cannot be paid. A note goes into the bank at 1 per cent. Next year the note is lifted and a new one given for double the amount, and so the trouble continues until the farmer finds himself a slave to the money lender. There is a cause for all this evil, and as certain as the cause exists the remedy exists also. The difficulty exists with the farmer himself, and the remedy he holds within easy grasp. Farming like all other branches of industry, to insure success, requires a wholesome intermingling of wisdom and labor. No enterprise can succeed by means of physical force alone. There must be wisdom to plan as well as muscle to execute. One man may be able with comparative ease to successfully conduct a business in which millions are involved while his neighbor, his equal in all things else, and who labors hard day and night, fails. And why? Not because of a lack of energy. Not because of extravagant or riotous living. Not because of inattention to business, but because of mistaken judgment. He over-reaches himself, and is trying to get rich in a few years. There are thousands of honest hard working farmers wearing their lives out for the sake of a bare living, trying to cultivate a 160-acre farm, that could live on the fat of the land and make money by giving away 140 acres of it and turn their attention to a proper cultivation of the remaining twenty. The farmers in France, as a whole, are the most prosperous and happy of any on earth, and there 20 acres is considered a big farm. Large farms are an injury to any country. They usually keep the owners poor and always prevent producers from settling in the country. Within the city limits of Reno there are two gentlemen who own less than two acres of ground each, on which each have made a handsome living for their families for the past ten years. They preserve and lay away in the Fall enough small fruits to last the family a year. In the cellar is stored a year's supply of all kinds of vegetables. They raise a few pigs and the little farm produces enough to keep these fat the year around. The result is they have little meat and no eggs to buy. Nearly all they consume in their family's, except tea, coffee, sugar and flour, is produced at home, and they are able to sell enough to pay cash for all this and have money left. How many men are there who are to-day trying to cultivate 160 acre farms can say as much? Very few, if any. It is safe to say that half the farmers in this valley to-day are buying their butter, eggs, potatoes and even barley for their horses at the stores in Reno. Let the big ranches be divided in 40 and 80 acre lots, let these be leased or sold on reasonable terms to small farmers and the price of land would be quadrupled in three years, and every farmer would be out of debt and happy.

McKissick's Opera House
"A Long Lane, or, Pine Meadow," which is to be produced at the Opera House Wednesday evening, July 10th, for the first time here, is by Senley Brown, and is described as an idyllic domestic comedy drama. It is promised that the production shall be in all respects a beautiful one, many novel features adding interest to the representation. One of these features is a flock of sheep introduced in the meadow scene, that advance down the lane and contentedly nibble grass behind a barbed wire fence. The company is the same that acted the play with success at the Fourteenth Street Theater, New York, and which success was duplicated in Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco. Among the people are Judith Berolde, L. L. LeBaron, Ethel Barrington, Grace Sherwood, Mrs. W. G. Jones, David Murray, Senley Brown, R. F. Catton, Alexander Kearney, A. C. Deltwin, David Mortimer, and others.

Advice to Mothers.
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

State Purchase of U. S. Bonds
Day before yesterday the State purchased through Wells, Fargo & Co., $100,000 of United States 4 per cent registered bonds, paying a premium thereon of 22,411 25. The interest goes into the School Fund for the support of common schools.

Change of Time.

The Plumas National protests as follows:
The recent change of time on the N. O. R. R. has caused a great inconvenience to the people of Sierra and Plumas counties. The present arrangement necessitates the Chat and Quincy stage leaving the Junction long before the stage arrives in order to make Quincy in day time and at the same time, giving us a tri-weekly mail, instead of a daily. If the stage manager changes time to meet the railroad change, it will provide an all night ride for passengers to Quincy, which is anything but a pleasant prospect. We will suffer for our daily news, but passengers are all right, as those parties leaving this section for the lower country can afford themselves the privilege of patronizing the private line of Jacob Stephens, which runs through to Truckee, without change, quick time and by daylight. This line has recently been established and is a great public benefit.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms, secures the systemic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

Distress After Eating
"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."

L. F. MCINTYRE, GENERAL AGENT OF THE Columbia Building & Loan Association, in the city for the purpose of organizing a good board here. The Columbia is the largest association in the country and is increasing rapidly, its plan offering great satisfaction, both to investor and borrower. The Columbia is a safe place to invest when a loan is desired, the local advising board, orders the loan, providing the security is ample,
and the same power as the main branch in Denver. Red tape and delay are thus entirely done away with. The rate of interest is 8 per cent per annum, payable in 72 monthly payments. No secretory will call on our business men in the next few days and it is to be hoped a large local board
